

R&G encourages LNC continuing education. Staying current with litigation issues is important in today's medical legal arena. Attorneys value LNCs that continue to update their consulting practice skills with current litigious medical topics. These areas include: medical malpractice, personal injury, product liability and obstetrics. These topics and more are covered in R&G's continuing education course offerings.

Educational Webinars are convenient and easily accessed via high speed connectivity with a computer in the comfort of your own home.
